

Robust Fusion Methods for Big Data

Badih Ghattas<sup>1*</sup>, Ricardo Fraiman<sup>2</sup>, Alejandro Cholaquidis<sup>2</sup>, Catherine Aaron<sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Institut de Mathématiques de Marseille, Aix-Marseille Université, <sup>2</sup>Centro de Matemática, Facultad de Ciencias - Udelar, <sup>3</sup>Université Blaise-Pascal Clermont II

*badihghattas@gmail.com

In this talk i will present some ideas about solutions suggested for some estimation problems in the context of Big Data, i.e. large samples. The principle is to divide the sample, resolve the problem over subsamples and aggregate the solutions. Position and dispersion estimations in a multivariate and functional context but also clustering.